Thanks to President Trump, UAE Announces Significant Investments in U.S. Economy

On Tuesday, President Trump hosted the UAE National Security Advisor, HH Sheikh Tahnoun bin Zayed, for a meeting in the Oval Office followed by dinner with Vice President Vance and several members of the Cabinet. The UAE National Security Advisor, who was visiting Washington at the direction of the UAE President, HH Sheikh Mohamed bin Zayed, was joined by an extensive delegation including the heads of major UAE Sovereign Wealth Funds and corporations.

Following the meeting, the UAE proudly committed to a 10-year, $1.4 trillion dollar investment framework in the United States. This new framework will substantially increase the UAE's existing investments in the U.S. economy in AI infrastructure, semiconductors, energy, and American manufacturing. In addition:

- Abu Dhabi-based MGX, BlackRock, Microsoft, and Global Infrastructure Partners (GIP) welcomed NVIDIA and xAI to the AI Infrastructure Partnership (AIP), which will seek to mobilize up to $100 billion in total investment to enable next-generation data center and energy infrastructure build out in support of US AI leadership.
- UAE investment fund ADQ, along with US partner Energy Capital Partners, announced a $25 billion dollar US-focused initiative to invest in energy infrastructure and data centers.
- XRG, owned by ADNOC, announced its commitment to support U.S. natural gas production and exports with an investment in the Next Decade LNG export facility in Texas. They also have additional plans to make substantial investments in US assets across gas, chemicals, energy infrastructure and low carbon solutions.

- ADQ and Orion Resource Partners have agreed to a $1.2 billion mining partnership to secure supplies of critical minerals.
- Emirates Global Aluminum plans to invest in the first new aluminum smelter in the United States in 35 years, which would nearly double US domestic aluminum production.

These significant investments underscore the close ties between the United States and the United Arab Emirates, and the strong relationship between President Trump and President Sheikh Mohamed.
